

Lesson 64

Poet musicians called troubadours wrote and sang ballads about courtly love and brave deeds and played music on harps or lutes while kings and noblemen dined.